First Call for Papers

The XXII International Conference of the Society for Human Ecology (SHE)

Envisioning Pathways to Just and Sustainable Futures: Celebrating diversity, pursuing integration, and developing livable communities

University of the Philippines Los Baños, Philippines

November 28 – December 1 2017

Dear SHE Members and Friends:

This is the first call for papers for SHE XXII. This conference is meant to be as broadly interdisciplinary as possible – bridging science, social science, and policy perspectives – with literature, humanities and creative arts. Like previous SHE meetings, it is intended to bring together a diverse group of educators, researchers and practitioners who utilize, or are interested in, interdisciplinary and ecological approaches to all aspects of human ecology education and research across a range of scales. We look forward to a diverse and exciting program with an excellent range of speakers, symposia, round-tables, and individual presentations. Symposia and papers on the following themes are especially encouraged;

- Health, Aging, and Demographic Change
- Sustainable Cities and Landscapes
- Food and Water Systems
- Communities in Transition: Implications for rural resilience, biodiversity, and tourism

However, papers on other aspects of human ecology education and research are encouraged.

I. CALL FOR PARTICIPATION

A. Abstract Preparation

Abstract preparation for contributed papers should include: The full title of the paper and name(s), institutional affiliation(s) and email address(es) for registered presenter(s). Similar information should be submitted for poster presentations. Those who are organizing symposia should likewise provide information for all presenters in their session, but at this point we only need an abstract for the symposium itself, not individual papers within it.

Abstracts should be about 150 - 200 words and include three to five key words. Abstracts can be submitted as an attachment or as email text. Please send to sheconference2017@up.edu.ph – and in the subject line of the email please indicate "SHE Abstract".

Early submissions help the conference committee identify emerging themes and design the program. Thus, we encourage early symposia/paper/poster submissions and "draft" abstracts as soon as is possible — keeping in mind revisions are always accepted up to the final deadline date.

B. Guidelines for Submission

1. Organized Sessions/Symposia: Organized sessions should be designed to fill a 2-hour block and involve 4 presenters. These usually consist of either a group of papers or a thematic discussion/symposium. The organizer is responsible for the coordination of participants. At this point only the session theme and the organizer's name and institution are needed. Email contact information, institutional affiliations and abstracts for all symposia presenters are required by September 07, 2017.

2. Contributed Papers: Individual papers will be grouped on similar issues. Paper presentations (c. 20 minutes in duration) will be placed in 2-hour time slots, with time allotted for end-of-session discussion. Please send presenter(s), titles and institutional information as soon as possible. Submission and review of abstracts is open until September 07, 2017.

3. Posters: Space and time will be provided for poster-style presentations. Submissions for posters follow the same guidelines as for a contributed paper, e.g. author, title and abstract, but should clearly indicate "poster" in the email heading.

FINAL DEADLINE FOR ALL SUBMISSIONS IS 07 SEPTEMBER 2017. Please send all materials directly to sheconference2017@up.edu.ph

II. Conference registration

The Society does its best to keep conferences as affordable as possible. The categories and rates are as below. The conference fee includes conference registration, including SHE membership if required, lunches and morning and afternoon snacks, and welcome reception. The conference dinner is optional at cost (to be advised). A range of social activities, conference tours, and dining options will be made available, payable directly to the provider.

Registration Fees

Professional SHE member (with 2017 SHE membership already paid) $230

Student/Dev Nation SHE member (with 2017 membership already paid) $130

Professional Non-member (includes a 2017 SHE membership) $290

Student/Dev Nation Non-member (includes a 2017 SHE membership) $160

Note: Early (reduced-rate) Registration Deadline is October 2ND 2017. All registrations after October 2nd, including on-site registrations, will include an additional fee of $25.00.

Online registration (preferred) is available here, www.regonline.com/shexxii or via the SHE website <https://societyforhumanecology.org/>

III. Travel and Accommodation Information

Information about travel to Los Baños and accommodations will be sent to all participants and posted on the SHE web page <https://societyforhumanecology.org/> This will be updated regularly.

AIRPORT TRANSFERS: All international participants and local participants (by request) will be provided airport transfers from your nominated terminal at Manila Airport to UP Los Banos. Where possible, a group pick up will be arranged so that the cost is divided by the number of delegates being picked up. If necessary, an individual pick up for approx. Php3800 or USD76 can be arranged. An official conference organizer will be assigned to fetch you upon arrival in the airport. Other transport options to UP Los Banos, such as cabs, uber, and grab, are available but are not advisable and likely to be expensive.

ACCOMMODATION: The Conference organizer will facilitate your bookings at the following suggested hostel/dorm/hotel, with these rates as a guide. Please inform us of your preferred rooms and accommodations so we may facilitate your bookings at the conference discount rate by emailing to sheconference2017@up.edu.ph with ACCOMMODATION as subject heading. (Note that you cannot book a room through the conference registration link.)
